Koutavos Lagoon

Koutavos Lagoon is located in Kefalonia, an island in Greece.

Koutavos Lagoon is a large coastal area and a protected wetland nature reserve. A bridge crosses the lagoon, which is only accessible by walking.

Tourists visiting the area can see rare flora and fauna, including birds, fish and turtles. Around the lagoon there are information boards that give tourists visiting Koutavos Lagoon information about the flora and fauna and how to protect it.

Tourists can swim in the water of the lagoon, relax on the beach, hire a pedalo or an electric boat from local providers or walk along the footbridge to experience the nature of the area.
